Courageous leadership, collaboration, and innovation.

When we're caught in the pressures and complexity of rapid change, the impulse is to move faster and work harder. In reality we need to step back, think more deeply and broadly, and learn to see and act in new ways. The ALIA Institute integrates mindfulness and creative process with the practical skills needed to implement positive change. Choose your area of focus from topics such as these:

- Skills for negotiation and conflict
- Practices for working with timely and decisive action
- Appreciative inquiry and the new philanthropy
- Tools and lenses for designing systemic change
- Strategies for multi-stakeholder engagement
